

La Leche League

Breastfeeding is natural, but it is a learned art. Attending a La Leche League meeting and seeing other mothers breastfeed their babies helps new and expectant mothers learn how to nurture their babies too.

Meetings are led by an accredited La Leche League Leader who has breastfed her baby and has completed a comprehensive training program. The Leader shares her knowledge of breastfeeding, encourages others to share their experiences, and helps clarify the La Leche League philosophy of mothering through breastfeeding. La Leche League information is validated by experts in medicine, psychology, nutrition, and child development.

Meetings follow a loosely structured format that allows plenty of time for questions and mother-to-mother sharing in a warm and supportive atmosphere. Information on breastfeeding is presented through discussions focusing on the following topics:

- The advantages of breastfeeding
- Adjusting to life with a new baby
- Overcoming difficulties
- Nutrition and weaning

Some Groups schedule special meetings for couples and for mothers of toddlers.

Expectant mothers, new mothers, and experienced mothers attend La Leche League meetings. Babies are always welcome.

Mothers and mothers-to-be who have questions and concerns about breastfeeding can contact La Leche League Leaders between meetings by phone or email.
